“AI-Driven Sustainable Solutions: From Data to Impact” Indonesia 2027

Thesis Description:

Artificial Intelligence is rapidly transforming the way societies understand and solve complex problems. However, sustainable solutions require more than technology alone — they require responsible thinking, human insight, ethical consideration, and an understanding of local realities.

This challenge invites students to investigate sustainability issues within schools, communities, and educational systems, and to explore how AI can be used meaningfully to create positive impact. Students are encouraged to combine data analysis, field research, and community perspectives in developing solutions that are practical, scalable, and sustainable.

Research Direction

Participants may choose either Research Direction 1 or Research Direction 2 as the main focus of their investigation.

1. Environmental Sustainability & School Communities

Focus your research on sustainability challenges within schools or surrounding communities. Investigate issues such as energy use, waste management, transportation, food waste, water conservation, or environmental behaviour. Compare findings across different schools or regions where possible, and explore how AI can help identify patterns, predict outcomes, or optimize solutions.

2. Sustainable Learning Systems & Educational Equity

Focus your research on challenges related to learning systems, access to education, student well-being, or educational inequality. Investigate how AI can support more inclusive, resilient, and sustainable educational environments. Include perspectives from educators, policymakers, or relevant stakeholders in your investigation.
